Proposing a number of indicators work capability assessment of graduates: Apply to the University of Economics - Hanoi National University

Nguyen Thi Thanh Thuy

Major: Business Administration

Publishing year: 2014

Supervisor: TS. Nguyen Tien Dung

Research purposes:

The purpose of the thesis research is to analyze work capability of graduates in order to make some adjustments recommended improving the quality of human resources after higher education in Vietnam in 2020.

Research tasks:

Theoretical studies on human resources and a number of quality indicators reflect the quality of human resources.

Analysis of the quality of human resources after higher education in Vietnam in recent years and a number of factors affecting the development of quality human resource training after college.

Research on the quality of training and the ability to meet the student 's work Economics University, Vietnam National University Hanoi

Proposed a number of recommendations and solutions to improve the quality of human resources after university training in Vietnam in 2020.

New contributions:

The thesis gives a unified way to understand some basic concepts such as capacity, manpower, training or education quality ...

The proposes a number of criteria to evaluate work capability of graduates through a survey of students who graduated in 2010.

Besides, the criteria applied for university economics to evaluate work capability of graduates of graduates to improve education quality and capacity of student work in the labor base.